The annual conference takes place at various UK locations and runs over three days. We are pleased to announce that this year’s host is Winchester.

This major event ensures that all those working in neuro-oncology in the UK meet to learn, discuss, and impart new findings within a friendly and informal atmosphere.

The multidisciplinary role of BNOS is represented by plenary sessions, presentations, discussions, debates, sponsored symposia, meet-the-expert sessions, role-play and posters covering a wide variety of topics which may range from stem cells and in-vitro models to classification and biomarkers, neuro-imaging and neuro-surgical techniques, immuno-oncology, quality of life and indicators of patient performance.

The Wednesday morning will focus on education and is relevant to all members who may be involved in managing patients with metastatic cerebral disease, an increasingly common issue in neuro-oncology MDTs.

Throughout the entire conference, presentations are made by renowned international speakers, national thought leaders and by up-and-coming researchers, clinicians and other healthcare professionals, and by a wide variety of others from allied communities, political systems, regulatory institutions, legal sectors etc.

Care is taken to ensure adequate time for informal individual discussion and there is always an enjoyable social programme.
